STORM CLOUDS MET.
Much Damage Done by Very Vicious Lightning.
THE STORM HERE AND ELSEWHERE.
John H. Welch's House on "Crow Hill" struck and fired—Lightning's Work in Other Parts of Town—Much Damage Done in Country.
Another dangerous lightning storm passed over Orange county, Wednesday afternoon, doing damage at many points. Middletown was the point over which a storm from the east and a storm from the north met, and a man who was on Highland Lake states that it was one of the most awe-inspiring cloud spectacles he has ever seen.
The clouds were literally charged with the same dangerous kind of lightning which did damage here but a few days ago. The bolts struck frequently at various places in the city and John H. Welch's house at No. 12 South Hill road avenue, was partially burned.
About 4 o'clock the telephones began to snap, and lightning ran along wires, causing pedestrians to fall out of their seats. Chief Higham and members of Eagles and Excelsiors were on guard all through the storm anticipating a fire alarm. A bolt which struck the wires on John street, however, put the alarm system temporarily out of business. The electricity centered all over the neighborhood. In Edwin McWilliams' shop the lightning played about the tools in a way which made the employees drop them very quickly. The current flew in Shambaugh & Co.'s office and burned the telephone out. The fire alarm system was broken by a part of the bolt which flew into Phoenix's house.
JOHN H. WELCH'S HOUSE BURNED.
About 4:30 a bolt struck and fired John H. Welch's house, in the "Crow Hill" neighborhood, and unsuccessful attempts were made to lead in an alarm from box 36, at Genung street and Academy avenue, box 48 at the oil plant on Sprague avenue and box 47, at East avenue and Fulton street.
Finally a still alarm was sent to Eagles by telephone. "Crow Hill is burning up," it said, and the patrol with three or four firemen dashed away. Chief Higham leaving orders with driver Dornus, of Excelsiors, not to leave until he had orders from the chief. On reaching the scene Eagles had 900 feet of hose from Sprague avenue and Fulton street to the house. Chief Higham and Constable VanKuren, having considerable trouble for the fire, dug away the stone ballast between the ties and passed the line of hose under the trucks, thus doing away with the necessity of stopping trains.
The fire was burning away in the upper part of the house, and kept breaking out at various parts of the building, and, needing ladders, the chief telephoned to Gordon's jewelry store, where the moon bells are rung, and instructed John to send in "46" on the bells. In the meantime Supt. of Fire Alarm Smith had located a broken circuit at Phoenix house, and a ground on the Hudson River telephone wire on Wickham avenue, near the residence of Mrs. M. D. Stivers. He cut out the western circuit of the system, and this cuts the bells, so when Mr. Gordon sent in the "46" it was only sounded by the whistle.
FALSE REPORTS OF FIRES.
Then reports began to reach the chief that there were three fires on Fulton street and one at the N. R. R. Road. There was nothing certain about these reports, but the chief said that he was able to take care of anything at the North End, and on the report coming that the tannery was on fire, McQuigod, towed by Donovan's team, Moulton's, towed by Gregory's team, and Phoenix, by somebody else's, were sent to box 37 at the tannery.
Of course there was no fire there, and soon after, Supt. Smith having straightened out the fire alarm system, the "two" was sounded and the companies returned to their houses.
Engels continued their fight at the Welch fire and finally extinguished it, but the house was thoroughly soaked and the upper part badly damaged. The loss covered by insurance, however, held by E. G. W. Masbuck's companies.
LIGHTNING STRUCK IN OTHER PARTS OF TOWN.
When the storm was at its height lightning struck all over town. A bolt followed the wire at the Western Union, burning out several fuses, and enough electricity played around Jacob Guntler's electric fuses and passed to and from the doorway to send Nick Tilla, the bootblack, at full length upon the floor. A bolt struck the chimney of Willis G. Tie's house at No. 5 Knapp avenue, but disappeared without doing any damage. A bolt struck the cupola of the barn on Wilcox avenue, in the rear of the W. B. Royce and Henry B. Dill properties on Highland avenue. It struck the cupola, glanced off and knocked off one corner of the barn. One of Mr. Royce's horses was badly shocked and was left deaf.
Another bolt struck a tree in Mr. Royce's yard, breaking off a limb.
Two cars on the trolley line were burned out, one at Rock Cut and another near the S. R. Hospital. The electric light circuit was burned out at Midway Park, but was repaired in time for the evening performance. The road closed operation for one hour during the storm.
OUT OF TOWN.
At New Hampton a bolt struck a tree at the end of John J. Stage's barn, and killed a six-month-old calf which lay under the tree.
The storm did not extend further north than Fair Oaks, where hail fell. At Livingston Manor, however, another storm raged.
A tree was struck near the Slamon house at Phillipsburgh, and the wire in front of L. V. Bent's was also hit.
At Monroe, passengers on the Orange County Express saw Mrs. Newcomb's house on fire. It was struck by lightning. A horse was burned in the building.
A cow belonging to Edward Book, of near Scotchtown was killed by lightning. It was near a tree which was struck, insured with Gardner & McWilliams.
A mare and colt belonging to James Mulce, of near Slate Hill, was out in a field when lightning struck and killed the mare.

The Maybrook depot of the Central New England road was struck by lightning three times but was not burned.
MUCH DAMAGE DONE EAST OF HERE.
From Our Goshen Correspondent.
During the severe storm of Wednesday, Goshen fortunately suffered little, although the rainfall was terrific and accompanied by heavy thunder and vivid lightning, which flashed incessantly.
Damage resulted, however, in almost every direction and from all the adjoining countryside reports of its disastrous effects are coming in. Several times during the height of the storm the Middle-town fire whistle was plainly heard.
At the farm of Alonzo Coleman, near Goshen, two bolts struck within an area of 150 feet, one of which destroyed his ice house and the other killed a bull. Mr. Coleman was in town, Wednesday evening, to notify the board of man to remove the carcass. He stated that the bull could not be replaced for less than $200. The ice house was an old one and was empty. The property was insured.
Directly in front of the residence of James A. Howell a tree was struck by lightning and denuded of its bark.
The barn of William Egbertson, near Campbell Hall, was struck, fired and consumed.
Early in the evening a fire was visible slightly to the left of Florida. From the residence of Dr. James C. Coleman a large blaze shone brightly through the night, apparently located in the Sugar Loaf Valley.
Conductor Connelly, of the Montgomery Branch train, states that the storm was of unusual severity at Montgomery, where it commenced at 2 o'clock.
At Campbell Hill hill stones fell, which are modestly estimated to have been as large as hickory nuts.
The 4:38 trolley car was held by the shutting off of the power for twenty-five minutes at Holbert's. About it were a bride and groom, from Middletown, who desired to take train 2 at Goshen. The wait was a source of much anxiety to them, and was shared in to a greater or less degree by their fellow passengers. All hands rejoiced greatly therefore that the car was able to proceed in time for the "two souls with but a single thought" to reach their train and continue upon their wedding journey.

Coroner Decker was notified and asked to make an investigation, some of the residents of the village claiming that the cause of the accident should be explained.
A jury viewed the remains and took an adjournment until after the funeral.
Mr. Decker is survived by his wife and two sons, Terry and Clinton, aged nine and three years. He became a member of Muncie Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., about two weeks before the accident, and his family will receive a death benefit of $500 from the council.

RELIC OF OLD TIMES.
"Travelers' Guide and Pocket Gazetteer" of 1826.
ONLY TWENTY-FOUR STATES THEN.
J. J. Kirkpatrick's Interesting Volume—Two Short Lines for Middletown and Half a Dozen for Goshen—Port Jervis Not Yet Discovered.
J. J. Kirkpatrick, of South street, showed us, Wednesday, a most interesting volume, "The Travelers' Guide and Pocket Gazetteer of the United States," published at New Haven in 1826.
One of the most interesting things in the volume is the map of the United States, which is folded in the front of the book. These United States weren't very much of a country at that time. There were then only twenty-four States, Missouri being the only one west of the Mississippi. Michigan, Iowa and Arkansas were still territories; what are now the States of Minnesota and Wisconsin were known as Northwest Territory, while all our possessions west of the Mississippi, except the State of Missouri, were designated as Missouri Territory. Our possessions were not then as great as they are now, for Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California were at that time part of Mexico. The boundary between the United States and Canada west of the thirty-seventh degree had not been established and was left undefined on the map.
In 1826 Middletown was such an insignificant place that it was dismissed in two short lines: "Middletown, post village, Orange Co., N. Y., 23 W. Newburgh."
Goshen came in for much more elaborate mention: "Goshen, post town and half-breed, Orange Co., N. Y., 60 N. New York, Pop. 3,341. The village is pleasantly located, and contains a court house, jail, bank, academy and 3 printing offices."
Newburgh was given nearly half a page. Mention is made of the village's pleasant location on the banks of the Hudson, and of its connection with a fertile and populous region by two turnpike roads, one leading to Cohecton and the other to Oxford. "Eight packets sail regularly to New York. The trade of Newburgh employs about fifty vessels, and few places are increasing more rapidly in wealth and population. In 1825 the village contained 548 dwelling houses and stores, a court house, a bank with a capital of $450,000, 3 printing offices, a lyceum of natural history, an academy and five churches. Among the manufactures are several grist mills and saw mills, a tannery, pottery, comb factory and three breweries; also an extensive cannon factory. Population of village 3,074."
Montgomery or Wardsbridge is given a good notice. It is credited with two churches and a flourishing academy, and the information is added that "near this village, in a morass, was found the skeleton of the mammoth, which is now deposited in Beale's Museum, Philadelphia." Walden is not mentioned.
New Hampton is described as "Walk-kill. The village stands on both sides of the Walk-kill. There is a large woolen factory."
Port Jervis had not been discovered at the time the book was issued and even the name of its predecessor, Delaware, is not mentioned.
Bloomington is credited with the distinction of having a printing office and Monticello is mentioned as having some village with a court house and jail.
His Money All Right.
When Chief Higham went to the Eagle truck house, Wednesday afternoon, he left his trousers containing $40 lying in his work room, where he was wearing overalls while painting banners for the parade day. He returned about two hours later and recovered the trousers and found the money all right.
Not on the List.

AT AYLESBURY FARM.
Christ Church Sunday School's Very Pleasant Picnic.
The picnic of Christ Church Sunday school, Wednesday, at Aylesbury Farm, Mr. and Mrs. E. Miller's summer home, was enjoyed by all the children and members of the congregation who participated in the outing.
While a bountiful dinner was being spread on the long tables in the grove, the children amused themselves with games of various kinds and indulged in rides on a rustic merry-go-round and on "Barney," the donkey.
About 2 o'clock the company were invited to the commodious piazza and lawn of the farm house, where Mr. and Mrs. Miller added much to the pleasure of the children by presenting to each a souvenir of the occasion including balls, fans, handkerchiefs, pencils, harmoniums, cases of school articles, etc.
A game of bowls on the smooth lawn furnished amusement to some of the older members of the party.
Just before starting for home milk and crackers were plentifully supplied for all the party by Mr. Miller. America was sung and three cheers were given for Mr. and Mrs. Miller and the Universalist Sunday school. At four o'clock the large procession of teams started for home. The showers encountered on the way only added zest to the ride, as all were well protected from the wet. All voted it a very happy day.
The cost of the transportation of the school to and from was borne by George N. Clemens.
OBITUARY.
Nathaniel Roe.
Word reached this city, Wednesday night, that Nathaniel Roe, of Florida, who was badly injured by a fall from a cherry tree, July 4, died Tuesday night, at 7:15. Hopes were entertained that his life might be saved by an operation, and had his strength permitted, it would have been attempted Saturday. He, however, grew steadily weaker and passed away quietly. During his illness he was carefully nursed by John H. Smart, of this city, and members of his family, and he had the best of medical attendance.
Mr. Roe was widely known as one of Orange county's most intelligent and successful horsemen and he had at his Terrace Hill Stock Farm some of the best horses in the county.
He leaves a widow and seven children: five sons—William, at home, Clarence, in the jewelry business at Chester; Fred, Frank and Charles, in the milk business in New York; and Herbert at home; also two daughters—Anna, wife of John Pop-pino, and Miss Corcoran, at home.
Mrs. W. B. Royce, of this city, is a half-sister of the deceased.
The funeral will be held at the house near Florida, on Friday, at 2 p. m.
ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL.
Marriage Follows An Attempt at Suicide.
Mrs. Charles Slater attempted, Tuesday afternoon, to drown herself in a creek near her residence, in Rowland, where she was restrained by persons who saw her and ran to her rescue.
Mrs. Slater's daughter Lily was engaged to be married in August to Levi Keator. A report gained publicity that he did not intend to fulfill his promise, but proposed instead to marry another girl in the village to-day. When Mrs. Slater heard this report she became despondent. Without waiting to ascertain whether it was true, she rushed out of the house and ran to the creek, with the intention of drowning herself. She had reached the creek when she was restrained.
After Mrs. Slater returned home, Mr. Keator was summoned. Explanations followed and arrangements for the marriage were made at once. The Rev. Mr. Beaker was sent for and in the evening he visited the Slater residence. There, in the presence of a few friends of the couple, he performed the ceremony which united Lily Slater and Levi Keator.
Need Police Attention.
There are some young rowdies who are making nuisances of themselves in the Audubon avenue band stand nights and they need police attention. The same gang laid a thirty-foot ladder across Spring street at a dark spot a night or two ago. An employee of the Astor, who was going home, saw the obstruction and removed it.
Escaped With a Bruise.
Hoik B. Campbell was riding on horseback, Wednesday afternoon, and in turning from West Main into James street, the horse slipped on the pavement and fell. It was not injured, and Hoik managed to get out of the stirrups without receiving any more serious injury than a bruise.

Procrastination.
Steals time, and everything that time ought to be good for.
Possibly it keeps you from using Pearline. You know from other parts of its ease and economy—but you're "putting it off."
Why not begin the use of Pearline with washed or cleaned—your face and hurts nothing; cleans everything.

THE
NEW YORK WORLD
THIRICE-A-WEEK EDITION.

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly.

The striking and important events of the last year have established the overwhelming value of The Thrice-A-Week World to every reader. For an almost nominal sum it has kept its subscribers informed of the progress of all our wars and, moreover, has reported them as promptly and fully as if it were a daily. With our interests still extending throughout the world, with our troops operating in the Philippines, and the great Presidential campaign, too, at hand, its value is further increased.

The motto of The Thrice-a-Week Worker is improvement. It strives each year to be better than it was the year before and public could begin it is shown by the fact that it now circulates more than twice as many papers every week as any other newspaper, not a daily, published in America.

We offer this unequalled newspaper and
The Miner together one year for $2.
The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.50.
